FANS LITTER STADIUM
AFTER MUSICAL EVENT

FANS LITTER STADIUM AFTER MUSICAL EVENT

“Verum?” Scorch said as she gently pushed open her dorm room. “I wanted to talk to you about something. I am very upset right now.”

“What happened, Scorchie?” Verum said with worry.

Scorch answered, “A few days ago, there was a concert at the Jawaharlal Nehru (JLN) Stadium in New Delhi. A concert is a musical event. It is held in a big place like a stadium. Singers stand on a stage and perform for their fans.

Many people came to the concert at the JLN Stadium. But they littered it, Verum! They left empty pizza boxes and soda bottles everywhere. They said that the stadium did not have dustbins.”

“If there were no dustbins at the stadium, the fans should have taken their trash with them. Then they could find a dustbin and throw the trash,” Verum said.

“Yes, Verum,” Scorch said. “The next day, athletes came to the JLN Stadium. They exercise here every day. They saw the messy stadium and felt heartbroken! They respect the stadium a lot. They were upset with how the fans had littered everywhere. Thankfully, a cleaning company arrived and cleaned the stadium.”

“We must be careful and clean wherever we go. Littering a place like that is wrong,” Verum said.

“Yes, Verum,” Scorch said. “Thank you for listening to me.”
